| Manylion y Galwad | i am writing to enquire about the proposed licence application to sell alcohol in the premises previously Tinas diamond bites in chester street flint. firstly without public houses and polish shops we have approx 14 shops who provide the sale of alcohol. we as a community are working with our MP and the local police to wipe out anti social behaviour involving alcohol and i dont think yet another facility of this kind will do the community of flint any help what so ever. The government are providing legislation/laws to wipe out binge drinking and the sale of cheap alcohol yet we see more and more places selling alcohol from early hours to late, yes people will always be able to purchase alcohol and i do think that shop owners should have strict rules on who they sell their commodities too as we are seeing people wandering the streets intoxicated and being sold alcohol to which is only increasing the problem and will cause potential accidents especially on the main road through flint where i myself have observed many a drunken person putting themselves and others at risk, one example i will share was of a person not a british citizen staggering along chester st, she dropped her blue carrier bag containing Polish named beer, her cans fell on the pavement and road and she was that drunk she struggled to pick them up, when she did eventually get her drinks back, she threw up on the pavement and then continued her route in a dangerous stagger, she could have caused an RTA and also harmed herself in the process, why are shops selling beer to these people, i seriously think spot checks should be in place to prevent this happening especially in the polish shops along chester street, i have seen the sale of alcohol being refused in Tesco as the person was too drunk, why is this not standard procedure?? i look forward to oour responce | |
